The adoption of that ordinance wrung from me bitter tears of grief, but I at once recognized my duty to abide the decision of my native state, and to defend her soil against invasion. Any scruples which I may have entertained as to the right of secession were soon dispelled by the mad, wicked, and unconstitutional measures of the authorities at Washington, and the frenzied clamor of the people of the North for warn poin their former brethren of the South. By this time Mr. Randolph's full pack of hounds had caught the party, and were winming and yelping as though they were within fifty yards of a wounded stag or red fox. The current of the river was or red tox. The current of the river was rapid, and the water intensely cold, and, while swimming and drifting to the other bank, the thought and hope struck Mr. Crawford, that, when safely across, the Cruwford watched again, with no little anxisty, Juba and the mare, still nearing the opposite bank, when to his horror, as the opposite bank, when to his norror, as the mars ascended the bank, Juba again brought a blast or two on his trampet: the mare switched the water from her flaxen tail, and on she wers—Mr. Randolph secthin, and on she wers—Mr. Mandolph sec-ond, and Mr. Crawford and the black stud-third. The honds, having an even start from the sonth side of the river, now keps up with the Christmas party, and in full cry, as though they were on the warmest trail. Soon a second pack joined the first pack, and so on for every few miles a new new would is in the tree few miles a

At last relief came, for the partyreached Colonel Barksdale's about 1 o'clock. Mr. Crawford was greatly exhausted, and his pants having slipped above his knees, his legs were scratched by briars, bruised by fence-rails and saplings, and chafed no little by the stirrip-leathers. The premises were throughd with some half-dizzen packs of hounds that had in in the Christthat he would be glad to retire. But little sleeping was done, as the phantom of the black stud constantly aronsed the great Georgian, who awoke himself more than once, by hollowing "Wo-wo, sir" and holding to the bed post, Abont Il o'clock on the next day, Mr R. went to the room of his friend, and said. The able report of Col. C. II. Penne-haker, the agent for the State of Kentucky, at Washington, recently transmitted to the Senate by Governor Brandetts, presents not a few interesting points for the consideration of the general realer, and more to those who have claims, growing out of the late war, against the general Government and the State. Col. nel Pennel aker allodes to the increasing number of claims presented for settlement by citizens of the State for quartermasters and commissing stores taken and used by the amy of the United States, based on register veneliers, under the act of July (th. The aggregate amount of gold necessary for the present fiscal year will be not less than $110,000,000. In addition to this there bonds which are to be paid in gold, sixteen million of which will mature within the next fiscal year. With the necessity for the United States to raise $110,000,000 a year in gold, it is absurd to talk of a free trade tariff, and it is unnecessary to talk of pretective tariff, because we cannot possibly procure a tariff to raise $140,000,000 in gold without protecting to a very large extent our home industry. To extend that, this amount is levied on articles that may be produced in this conatry of diffes to be levied on articles of this kind and will not be less than 50 per cent ad valorem. It is manifest then that the main object of the tariff bill is to produce $150,000,000. We may very probably leaves the question of production as a matter of detail, because it would be impossible to frame a tariff bill without protection. It is sometimes said that the present tariff. sometimes said that the present tariffl will produce that amount beause ing the last fiscal year it produce 1,100,000. This is not correct. Du natry. It yielded us a revenue of $179, 0.000, but under the very same law the tail refore it was only $81000,000.

The cail e of this great increase is asily explained. When the war closed the Southern States were depleted of verything produced by foreign as well as tenestic manufacture. Merchants in the Comb had been brainer their stocks get denostic manefacture. Merchants in the North had been beining their stocks get low, and with the sudden hall in gold which followed the close of the war they imported largely. We cannot depend for the next fiscal year up on the present tarify bill. It will not raise more than $125.000,000 or $130,000,000. The pend-ice hall proposed an advance of about top.

Editors Louisville Journal:

GENTLEMEN: About two weeks since a man by the name of Jonathan Dnnn was killed near the Jeffersonville Hospital grounds, of which an account appeared in the Jonnal at that time. His relatives and the faintle of the decayed not hear and the fair and the faintle of the decayed not hear and the fair and the and the friends of the deces satisfied with the decision of the Coroner's jury, had the body taken up and re-examined on last Saturday. Some six medical ing discoveries were made. An extensive fracture of the skull was found extending from the lambdoidal suture through the occipital bone into the foramen magnum. eral ounces of extrarosated blood was found on the brain, caused by the rupture of the blood vessels of the brain. The result of the examination satisfied the majority of those in attendance that he came to his death by falling from his horse, his head striking the hard frozen ground, producing the above-mentioned result. Respectfully, yours, DR. R. W. SHAW.

A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT ON THE CON-DITION OF AFFAIRS IN THE UNITED STATES.

We take the following from the London correspondent of the New York World: correspondent of the New York World:

"I meet with many people here, and those who are supposed to be best acquainted with American affairs are not without apprehension as to the course they may climately assume. I was speaking the other day with a member of the British Parliament, who compared the present position of the United States to that of England at the time of her great revolution, and said that we were virtually nuder the rule of a Long Parliament, for, said he, "if Parliaments in America are of short duration, the spirit which actuates them separately is the same, and it is the them separately is the same, and it is the spirit and not the body which is looked at in the present occurrence. Now that spirit, which is that of a great majority of the people, is as arbitrary, as stubborn, as arrow, as despotic as that of our Long Parliament. Like our own Parliament, it will be carried into excesses of power fatal to existence; and, like our own Parlia-ment, it will be ignominiously driven out by the hand of some Cromwell, who will the purpose of saving the expiring liberty of America. There is no need of great political prescience to arrive at such con-clusion. The work of tyranus is already accomplished. The Executive is virtually abolished; the Legislative has usurped its place; the system of checks and bal-ances which was at the bottom of the Conances which was at the bottom of the Constitutional guarantees enjoyed by the American people, is destroyed. Of the past, nothing remains butruins, a distracted country, a disaffected people, disorganization in the present, uncertainty in the future. Who will save you from such a position. Nothing but the hand of a magician, and that magician must have been cast in the mold of a Cromwell or a Bonaparte. Meanwhile yon will have to go through a series of experiments of a most trying character. Your commerce, your industry, your finances will be sha ken in their utmost foundation. These essential elements of the prosperity of all countries will be materially affected. But this indispensable to your religious But this is indispensable to your welfare. It is only through sufferings that you will be called to the reality of your position, and that looking at the fatal plane on which you are unknowingly running, you will throw yourself backward into the arms of a wholesome reaction. I know but it is success they flatter, and not you.
The public men and the press of this country fear America, and it is because they fear that they flatter.
